If the property rights of a third party continue to exist in case of processing or mixture with our goods, we acquire a joint ownership relative to the value of the processed goods.
- 5.3 The buyer has to cede the demands to us as security resulting out of sale to a third party amounting to the value of our joint ownership (compare paragraph 5.2). We accept this cession. He is allowed to collect it for us on our account until suspension of his payments or until he files for insolvency on his assets, unless being recalled. The buyer is not allowed to cede these demands neither for the purpose of demand collection through factoring unless the factor is obliged to transfer the counter payment amounting to our demands directly to us, as long as there are existing any demands on our part against the buyer.

6. Delivery / Service / Obligation to accept delivery

- 6.1 The delivery date given on the order confirmation is not binding unless it is written that it is obliging.
- 6.2 Delivery and date start with the date of order confirmation. If not otherwise agreed, the goods are delivered in time if they have left our works or our stock within this period.
- 6.3 The adherence to the delivery date provides that all technical questions are answered and all documents, necessary authorizations, releases or other obligations are supplied by the buyer. If the above mentioned requirements are not fulfilled, the delivery date is prolonged correspondingly; this is not valid if the delay has been caused by us.
- 6.4 If we are not able to deliver in time due to official instructions or steps, force majeure, mobilization, war, riot, strike, lockout, virus or other attacks of third parties on the IT system of the supplier or by the happening of unforeseen obstacles beyond our control or that of our suppliers, the delivery date is prolonged adequately.
- 6.5 If the obstacles of delivery as indicated under paragraph 6.4 last unreasonably long, both parties of the contract have the right to withdraw from the contract. The buyer has only the right to withdraw from the contract after expiry of an appropriate extension unless a delivery with fixed delivery date has been agreed in written form. The buyer is not entitled to any other claims.

- 6.6 If we are responsible for an exceeded delivery date, the buyer has the right to withdraw from the contract after expiry of an adequate extension. Damage claims are according to the regulations under paragraph 9.
- 6.7 If the delay of dispatch or of good's delivery is caused by the buyer, we have the right to invoice additional expenses resulting thereof especially storage charges.
- 6.8 In case that the buyer doesn't fulfil its obligations to accept delivery, we are allowed, regardless of other rights, to charge the costs for the withdrawal of goods to the buyer. The withdrawal of delivered products by us for reasons of goodwill requires first-class quality, original packing, prepaid carriage after a fixed date arrangement.

- 6.10 SAB reusable solid wooden cable drums are and remain our property and are only lent to the buyer. After the loan period has expired, unreturned SAB reusable solid wooden cable drums will be invoiced. One way cable drums are not taken back by SAB Bröckskes.

7. Transfer of risk

- 7.1 The accidental ruin or deterioration of the delivered goods are transferred to the buyer, as soon as we hand over the goods to the carrier, forwarder or to any other person or institution charged with the dispatch by the buyer.
- 7.2 If it is requested by the buyer to deliver the goods at a later delivery date as agreed or the delivery is delayed due to reasons to be justified by the buyer, the risk is transferred to the buyer from receipt of the notification of readiness for dispatch.

8. Guarantee

- 8.1 All indications about suitability, processing and application of our products, technical advice and other indications are made to the best of our knowledge and belief; nevertheless they do not relieve the buyer neither from tests on his own nor from employing or charging qualified personnel. We can only be held responsible for a special application of our products if we were informed about it in advance and have confirmed it correspondingly in written form.
- 8.2 The buyer has to check the delivery immediately upon receipt with regard to any defects - also by trial processing - otherwise the goods are considered to be accepted with regard to the defect.
- 8.3 Complaints can only be considered if they are announced in written directly after appearance or immediately after discovery at the latest. Proofs or specifications describing the defect have to be attached. Apparent defects have to be announced within 10 days. The goods are considered to be accepted also with regard to the defect without notification through the buyer.
- 8.4 In case that a fault of a service or good furnished by the supplier is due to reasons the customer has to assume, especially due to incorrect specifications or retained pieces of information decisive for the individual case and construction, the liability of the supplier is excluded.
- 8.5 Our guarantee obligation is limited to replacement or repair of the goods by choice. Therefore, the buyer shall grant us the necessary time and opportunity according to one's reasonable discretion. If the replacement or repair fails two times, the buyer has the legal guarantee rights. Claims for damages are only possible under these conditions.
- 8.6 Guarantee does not occur if operation, installation or maintenance instructions are not observed or not released spare parts or materials are applied.
- 8.7 Complained goods can only be resent with our expressive consent. In this case the buyer must choose an appropriate and secure packaging.
- 8.8 The replaced parts by guarantee obligations are transferred to our property after being removed in case of legitimate interest.
- 8.9 We are liable for replacement or repair deliveries to the same extent as for original deliveries; this means till expiry of the guarantee period valid for the original delivery.

- 8.10 For the delivery of new products the statutory of limitation for material defect claims is 12 months from taking over the property by the buyer or the person charged by him in case that the latter takes possession of the goods earlier than the buyer himself. The legal statutory period of limitation is valid if we concealed the defect maliciously and/or caused it deliberately or by gross negligence.
- 8.11 Second-hand goods are delivered without any guarantee unless otherwise agreed in written form. The legal statutory period of limitation is valid if we have concealed the defect maliciously and/or caused it deliberately or by gross negligence.
- 8.12 An inhibition of the statutory period of limitation by negotiations, § 203 BGB, only takes place, if these are lead with our legal representatives.

9. Damages

- 9.1 Claims for damages against us, regardless of which legal foundation, especially due to breach of duties resulting from contractual obligations or illegal liability are excluded. This isn't valid for:
- harm to life, body or health based on breach of duty by us and/or
 - other harm based on deliberate, malicious breach of duty or caused by gross negligence on our part and/or
 - culpable breach of duty whose fulfilment enables the correct implementation of the contract at all and its breach endangers the fulfilment of the contact aim and/or on its adherence the buyer can trust. In such a case our liability is limited to the value of the foreseeable damage provided that the breach of duty has not been caused deliberately or by gross negligence. Claims on any lost profit, saved expenditures arising out of claims from third parties as well as other communicable or incommunicable subsequent damage cannot be claimed in case of simple negligence unless it is the purpose of a guaranteed property by us to protect the buyer against such damage. In case of breach of other duty we are not liable with simple negligence.
 - taking over a guarantee or a procurement risk or according to the law on product liability.
- 9.2 We are not liable for the injury of foreign protective rights provided that the injury of protective rights is based on drawings, designing or other indications of the buyer.

- 10.4 As far as the buyer has its domicile in a state which is not member of the EU or EFTA (member states of the EFTA are Island, Norway, Switzerland and Liechtenstein), section 10.3 is not applied. Instead all disputes arising from the actual contract are finally decided acc. to the rules of arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) by three arbitrators who are appointed according to the preceding rules. The place of arbitral action is our place of business in Germany. The applicable substantive law is the German law with regulations of the international civil law as well as of the UN convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods being excluded. The language of the arbitral action is German.
